this british railways history explores the long held tradition of naming steam locomotives in honor of the military the naming of steam locomotives was a beloved british tradition since the first railway locomotives appeared in 1804 many of the names were chosen in honor of military personnel regiments squadrons naval vessels aircraft battles and associated historic events this volume looks specifically at the steam locomotives with military inspired names that were built by the london north eastern railway which joined the british railways stock in 1948 a large number of the company s jubilee class locomotives were given names with a military connection as were a small number of black five class engines famously the majority of the much admired royal scot class of engines carried names associated with the military in general and regimental names in particular many of the nameplates were adorned with ornate crests and badges long after the demise of mainline steam rescued nameplates have become prized collectors items this generously illustrated publication highlights the relevant steam locomotives and explains the origins and social history surrounding their military names this is the first encyclopedia to chart the progress of britain s railway development it begins with primitive 17th century wagonways fully considers the eras of horse steam diesel and electric traction and then charts the change from private to public ownership finally it describes in detail the privatizations of the late 1990s over six hundred entries by eighty eight expert contributors provide a comprehensive and unique reference to all aspects of railways the present day parish of greatham lies in the county of hampshire on either side of the old farnham surrey to petersfield turnpike the domesday book of 1086 recorded greatham as being terra regis a latin term meaning land of the king indicating that this was once a royal manor belonging to william the conqueror himself in later years the manor passed through many families by marriage and by purchase including the devenish marshall norton freeland love chawner and coryton families the name of the village has changed many times however slightly over the years greteham grietham gretham grutham gratham all derived from two separate words the old english anglo saxon ham meaning village estate manor or homestead and an old scandinavian word griot or gryt meaning stones or stony ground thus the name greotham came into being literally a stony estate or farm on gravel the author fred kerr was introduced to the world of industrial railways in 1956 when his parents moved from edinburgh to corby in northamptonshire where the local steelworks offered a mix of locomotives from several manufacturers when steam traction finished on br in august 1968 fred s interest in railways continued with diesel and electric traction whilst retaining a passing interest in industrial locomotives through his visits to the heritage lines which were initiated in the post beeching era when the author converted to digital photography in 2001 he visited many heritage lines as he sought to gain experience in the digital world when he looked back after a decade of digital photography he noted that industrial locomotives were still at work on many heritage lines throughout the uk he also noted that during the 1960s the effort to preserve mainline steam traction had overlooked the availability of industrial locomotives leading to the scrapping of many locomotives with both a story to tell and an incomplete working life the result is a book that pays tribute to industrial locomotives which are still at work by detailing the manufacturers of these workhorses and the locomotives which they built identifying their working lives where possible showing their entry into preservation and paying tribute to those heritage lines which appreciated the value of these unsung heroes of the industrial revolution by buying the scrap locomotives then restoring them to working order in great britain there existed a practice of naming steam locomotives the names chosen covered many and varied subjects however a large number of those represented direct links with military personnel regiments squadrons naval vessels aircraft battles and associated historic events for example all but one member of the famous royal scot class were named in honor of british regiments also the southern railway created a battle of britain class of locomotives which were named in recognition of battle of britain squadrons airfields aircraft and personnel in addition the great western railway renamed some of its engines after second world war aircraft the tradition has continued into modern times as the newly built a1 class locomotive is named tornado in recognition of the jet fighter aircraft of the same name this generously illustrated publication highlights the relevant steam locomotives and additionally examines the origin of the military names nineteen papers presented to the second international early railways conference discussing many aspects of the railways which preceded the main lines of the railway age as exemplified by the cover picture of a south wales coal train in 1821 the fruit of wide research these authoritative studies embrace history and archaeology locomotives and permanent way financing and management they shed new light and offer fresh perspectives on the formative years of railways both in britain and elsewhere back of book
